Only high doses, used for thyroid cancer treatment, can cause bone loss. There are a number of FDA approved medications that may reduce bone loss, increase bone density, and reduce fracture risk.

A high intake of green and yellow vegetables has been linked to increased bone

One of the best types of activity for bone health is weight-bearing or high-impact exercise, which promotes the formation of new bone. What are you doing to build bone health now? How is bone strength measured? Your family history partly determines what your peak bone mass will be; some families tend to have denser bones than others. Making healthy lifestyle choices will help you reach the greatest peak bone mass possible for you. Is this distinction important?
